Tuition talk upsets faculty

BOG may vote on possible hike in fall meeting

By ADAM McHUGH
Administration editor

The Board of Governors announcement this week that it may consider a tuition increase proposal later this fall received negative reactions from some faculty members.

On Wednesday, BOG Spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said the board may consider putting together a tuition increase proposal for submission to the Illinois Board of Higher Education later this fall.

On Sept. 22, the board will review its budget for the 1995-96 academic year at Governors State University in Chicago. Brazell said the budget should be approved at that time, allowing the BOG to discuss a tuition hike proposal.

The BOG will submit its budget proposal to the IBHE in October.

Faculty Senate Chairman John Allison believes a tuition hike proposal presented this fall would be "unfortunate," as Eastern already experienced a 3.1 percent tuition increase this fall.

"I think it's really unfortunate for the students," Allison said. "They are already absorbing a lot of the cost of higher education."

Allison said over the past 10 to 15 years tuition increases have been constant while state funding for education has decreased year

UPI salary talks 'moving forward'

By ADAM McHUGH
Administration editor

When the Board of Governors submitted its latest salary increase counter offer to Eastern's teachers union, it was hoping to settle the negotiations once and for all.

But Laurent Gosselin, president of Eastern's chapter of the University Professionals of Illinois, says that while the talks are now "moving forward," a contract settlement will not emanate from the latest offer.

Late Wednesday, the BOG revised its 0.84 percent salary increase offer which Gosselin had called "a slap in the face" to Eastern faculty.

In a situation which Gosselin described as "very unusual," the BOG's head negotiator Liz Murray, presided over a conference call with heads of the UPI chapters.

"I thought it was really strange that they came to us with this offer in this manner," Gosselin said of the BOG. "I think they were trying to avoid the embarrassment of knowing that Eastern faculty are behind their peers in salary."

Gosselin said although he credits the board with "coming to the table

Charleston voters split on race for governor

By JEREMY R. KIRK
Staff writer

While Democratic candidate Dawn Clark Netsch and incumbent Gov. Jim Edgar are gearing up their campaigns for the November election, Charleston voters are monitoring the issue of public education with a watchful eye.

But voters are divided over which gubernatorial candidate will do the best job managing the funding crisis facing Illinois schools.

Dorothy Lovall, a Charleston resident, said Edgar has worked hard during his four years as governor and has lived up to his campaign promise to help education.

"I think when he went into office, he had his work cut out for him," Lovall said. "I think he's done a great job con-

Close gubernatorial race predicted

By BRIAN HUCHEL

Eastern political science professors are predicting a close Illinois gubernatorial race between incumbent Jim Edgar and Democratic challenger Dawn Clark Netsch.

Political science professor Richard Wandling said Edgar has several strengths going into the November race.

"Edgar is strong as an incumbent and he has an advantage in the public opinion polls," Wandling said. "He also has a hefty campaign budget."

"Don't underestimate Netsch, however," Wandling added. "She was not expected to be the Democratic cansidering what he's had to work with."

Lovall said that Netsch's plan to pour more money into education with a state income tax increase is not the right approach.

"I don't think it's quite that simple,"

Lovall said. "If it was that simple and easy, I think Edgar would have come up with a similar plan."

Netsch's plan for education includes increasing the state income tax from 3 percent to 4.25 percent, while also providing some property tax relief. During her visit to Charleston last Saturday, Netsch said her plan would give Charleston schools an additional $2 million in revenue and more than $892,000 in property tax relief for the area.

Andrew McNitt, head of Eastern's political science department, said Edgar has ignored the education system and the financial condition of Illinois.

"I don't think he's (Edgar) done that much for Charleston other than getting a couple of his friends jobs," McNitt said. "Education has been badly neglected. As far as Charleston, I'd like to see someone who sets up an education program and gets some money into after year.

Brazell explained that the BOG has not decided whether it will pursue the tuition hike this fall. The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale are currently considering tuition hike proposals and will likely submit them to the IBHE in October.

Brazell said the Oct. 27 BOG meeting should provide the forum for the governing board to approve a tuition increase proposal if one is prepared.

"The September meeting will show us where we are at and what we need," she said. "But there will not be any tuition figures or proposals at that time."

Former Faculty Senate Chairman Bill Addison described the possibility of another increase proposal as "ironic."

"One day I hear the board is offering a less than 1 percent salary increase, and then I hear they may want to raise tuition again," Addison said. "There is something really wrong there."

Although most of the tuition hikes Eastern has seen recently have been consistent with inflation, the increases "quickly add up over time."

"When you look at these increases over the long term, they can be pretty high," Addison said.

Deb Smitley, associate director of public relations for the IBHE, said the recent onslaught of tuition increase proposals is a growing trend that members believe is a turn for the better.

"When governing boards submit these with their budgets in the fall, everyone can prepare for it," Smitley said.

the Charleston school system so my kids can get a better education."

Edgar is an Eastern graduate from Charleston.

McNitt said Netsch's plan to raise the state income tax is a good idea and that he "looks forward to an increase in education and some property tax relief."

Charleston Mayor Dan Cougill said the issue of education is not as black and white as Netsch thinks and he is not entirely convinced of the figures Netsch has proposed.

"So often when you create a state program, when they (the state) collect $10 dollars, you don't get $10 back," Cougill said. "There is some taken off to administer. So when they say they are going to raise personal taxes and they have to take $10 from me, am I going to get back $10 for education?"

With the election only two months away, both Netsch and Edgar have been airing televised political advertisements. Charleston voters, however, have not been impressed with the tone of the ads.

"I think that she (Netsch) is too negative," said Charleston resident Nell Cunningham. "I hate the negativism that has gotten so vicious. I wouldn't vote for someone who did it."

Cougill said he was pleased that both candidates came to Charleston to talk to voters. Edgar stopped briefly in the Charleston area Tuesday to attend an anniversary celebration for Illinois Consolidated Telecommunications.

"It's nice to see they are keeping in mind that there are people south of I-80," he said.

so quickly" after Tuesday's brief breakdown in talks, he still questions the BOG's motives.

"I didn't appreciate the tone in which the counter offer was submitted," Gosselin said. "There was a vaguely disguised intimidation in it."

"It basically sounded like the board was saying, 'This is it until talks resume in November. Take it or leave it,'" he added.

Gosselin also said the board's announcement of the offer is "not completely true."

"The board is trying to sell us something that is not completely honest," Gosselin said. "The offer will probably barely cover the cost of living right now."

Gosselin was referring to a BOG press release with the latest contract offer by the BOG being above the amount appropriated by the General Assembly for salary increases.

The General Assembly made provisions for a 3.5 percent salary increase for university personnel, a figure which Gosselin thought was grossly violated by Tuesday's 0.84 percent increase offer.

"The board is offering something it hopes will make some naive individuals think they are getting a good deal," Gosselin said.

While he would not disclose the figures currently being reviewed by the UPI, Gosselin said the BOG is attempting to include last year's equity increase as part of the offer.

"That's like your boss saying, 'I am giving you a 20 percent pay raise, but I am including last year's 15 percent raise with that,'" Gosselin added.

BOG Spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said the board has made "a big jump" from the last figure it offered.

didate, but she is. The big question is will she be able to make her stance on education and income tax stick."

Andrew McNitt, chairman of the political science department, said Netsch will have several advantages of her own along the campaign trail, including popularity.

"Netsch is definitely well-known in the state," McNitt said. "She has very good issues in terms of education and tax relief for the state."

"Issues like those should be a matter of public debate between the two candidates," McNitt said. "It is all just normal Illinois politics, I think the race has just begun."

Although the predictions of the professors differ from current public opinion polls, which put Edgar far ahead of Netsch, McNitt and Wandling defended their positions, saying the polls are not totally accurate.

"Public opinions polls are useful," said Wandling. "However, they are usually better after Labor Day when they are taken closer to the day of the election."

Alcohol arrest tops report

By TRAVIS SPENCER
and BRIAN HUCHEL
Staff editors

An Eastern student was arrested early Sunday morning at the Ninth Street parking lot on the charges resisting an officer and consumption of alcohol by a minor.

Kory Glen, 18, and Barry Beshe, 18, were found at 7:20 a.m. by two University Police officers lying on a grass area west of the Ninth Street parking lot. The officers succeeded in awakening Beshe first, who produced identification.

Another officer tried to wake Glen, who refused to get up and swung at one of the officer's legs. The officer then subdued Glen, who eventually agreed to stand up, police said.

Once Glen stood up, he tried to hit one of the officers. The officer sprayed Glen in the face with pepper spray and took him to the University Police Department.

In other police reports:

- Computer and electrical equipment, valued at about $2,300, was stolen between 3:30 and 7 a.m. Sunday from the car of Gary R. Babbit, 24, of Decatur while it was parked on the 1400 block of Seventh Street. Babbit was visiting friends in Charleston, according to the police report.

Thieves cut a six-inch slit in car's convertible top and took a desktop computer, monitor, keyboard and mouse. An AM/FM cassette and CD player and a police scanner were also stolen police said.

The damage to the convertible cover was estimated at $500.

- Eastern student Kevin P. Nix, 19, of 305 Pierce Ave., reported to Charleston police that someone slashed one of his tires and put numerous scratches on his vehicle between 6 p.m. Thursday and 1:20 p.m. Friday. His car was parked at the residence.

The damage was valued at $265.

- A videocassette recorder, compact disc player and handheld video game, valued at $430, were stolen from the home of David B. Kwon, 1421 Fourth St., Apt. 1, between 9 p.m. and midnight Friday.

- A student caused about $100 damage to a door leading to a seventh floor stairway in Andrews Hall Thursday night.

According to police reports, a resident assistant reported a disturbance around 10:40 p.m. Thursday. She reported loud cursing coming from the floor's stairwell and when she investigated she saw a man.

She said when she attempted to get his name he began to curse loudly, according to the report.

Chinese educators to speak

By STEPHANIE CARROLL
Activities editor

Two visiting administrators from a university in China will take part in a panel discussion on campus Tuesday concerning higher education in China and the United States.

Fang Hui Jun, president of Guilin Institute of Electronic Technology, in Guilin, China, and Yaling Li, deputy director for the Department of Education in Guilin, will speak at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Phipps Lecture Hall, Room 121 of the Physical Science Building.

Joining Jun and Li on the panel will be Eastern professors Anthony Oseguera, a speech communication professor, and Mahmood Butt, chairman for the secondary education and foundation department.

Ping Chen, a political science professor, said the discussion, titled, "Government Supervision of Higher Education," will focus on differences between universities in China and the U.S.

"They'll talk about the fact that communism is falling apart all over the world," Chen said. "China is the only big country still with Communist rule. Students can see how a university operates under communism."

Chen said the visit to Eastern was arranged when Jun and Li asked to visit the university on their first visit to the United States. Chen said their home town in China, which is Guilin, is the most famous resort city in China. "This discussion will expose students to people from abroad," Chen said. "It's good cultural diversity for students."

Chen said the discussion will probably last one hour.

The university in Guilin is an engineering university of higher education under the administration of the Ministry of Electronics Industry in China. Chen said the U.S. has three times as many universities as does China.

Lawsuit disputed in McCoy case

Attorneys will try next month to get a judge to dismiss the lawsuit filed by Eastern student Greg McCoy, who was burned in a lime pit last year.

Lawyers for Gano Welding Supplies, Delta Sigma Phi fraternity, the Uptowner and Cellar and Mother's Bar, the four defendants in McCoy's civil case, will be trying to get the case thrown out on Oct. 4 in Coles County Circuit Court.

McCoy, now 21, suffered third-degree burns from caustic chemicals on 80 percent of his body. Police found him laying in the lime pit early in the morning on March 6.

The suit alleges McCoy was thrown in a lime pit by members of his fraternity, Delta Sigma Phi, while he was pledging.

It also alleges the then 20-

year-old McCoy was forced to get inebriated at Mother's Bar, 506 Monroe Ave., and the Uptowner and Cellar, 623 Monroe Ave.

Gano Welding Supplies, 320 Railroad Ave., is where the lime pit is located.

Attorneys of the four defendants filed a motion of dismissal last April.

McCoy was released from the burn unit in June.

McCoy received numerous and painful skin graphs while in Springfield's Memorial Medical Center, said Peter Borich, McCoy's attorney.

Promotion begins for Diamond Rio

By SHONNA JUGAN
Staff writer

Parents of Eastern students will be the primary focus for promoting the Diamond Rio concert, the main entertainment attraction planned for Parents Weekend.

Mailers containing entertainment details for the entire weekend were sent out last week to members of the Parents Club. The mailers, which include an explanation form and ticket sales information, will be sent to parents who are not members of the club beginning next week.

The Diamond Rio country music concert and all other activities will then be promoted to the students through their parents. Funding for the advertising is done through the University Board and Parents Club.

David Milberg, director of the Student Activities Office, said sending the information to parents is done every year to promote Parents Weekend entertainment and has been successful in the past.

Although there are no plans for other immediate advertisement, Milberg said if ticket sales are low near the concert date, UB members may turn to advertising the concert in local papers. Given the popularity of country music during the past few years, however, turn out for the country group is expected to be high.

Diamond Rio, along with opening act solo artist Lee Roy Parnell, will be performing in Lantz Gym, Oct. 29. Diamond Rio will be the first country music band ever to perform at a Parents Weekend celebration.

Diamond Rio's number one hits include "Meet in the Middle," "Norma Jean Riley" and "Mirror Mirror." Along with two Grammy nominations, the band was awarded Country Music Association's "Vocal Group of the Year" and the Academy of Country Music's "Top Vocal Group" in 1991.

Warm air to return

By ANDREA MILLER
Staff writer

The dog days of August are now behind us and unseasonably cool weather has hastened in the coming of fall.

According to local weather observer Dalias Price, the Charleston-Mattoon area has cooled off considerably during the past week by a front that has brought in a flow of colder air from Canada.

Early Wednesday morning, however, the frontal system moved out, resulting in the morning showers that lingered until early that afternoon, Price said.

Price said August precipitation totals were 2.48 inches, which is approximately one-half inch below August's typical monthly average.

Currently, the cold air is blowing through the area and cooler temperatures will continue through Friday morning, Price added.

By Friday afternoon, the cool air mass will move off the area, Price said. He said the resulting warming trend will bring temperatures back up into the mid to upper 70s.

By Saturday, temperatures will reach back up into the lower 80s with southwest winds providing "cool, balmy breezes". Price said the warming trend will continue through Sunday and Monday.

Even though the official beginning of fall is Sept. 21, Price said that fall temperatures will roll in by Sept. 10.

CLARIFICATION

In Wednesday's edition of The Daily Eastern News, Faculty Senate Chairman John Allison was quoted as saying those wishing to speak at the Sept. 13 forum on the Strategic Plan will be required to sign up to determine the time allowed for each speaker.

Allison said no actual list will have to be signed by faculty wanting to discuss the plan, rather anyone who calls his office at 581-6978 will be given time to speak at the forum. He added the length of time each person will be allowed to speak should be limited to about five minutes.

Students owed apology from MIA senate members

It was one of the most impressive public displays of greek power in the last five years. It should make everyone sick.

Wednesday's Student Senate meeting was canceled after most of the members did not show up. Only two of the five Student Government executives, Student Body President Blake Wood and Speaker of the Senate Stacy Hart, were in attendance.

Most of the senate members who weren't there didn't come because they were at rush, a recruitment time for the university's greek social organizations.

The unacceptable reasons why the senate members weren't there are not important, but the fact they chose their greek organization over their duties on the Student Senate is. The absences were a pathetic display of twisted priorities where more than 15 elected senate members turned their back on the students who elected them.

Wednesday was the first senate meeting of the year. It was also the day Hart was going to give the State of the Senate address, a speech that is supposed to set the tone for the year. What message did these absentee senate members think they'd send by deciding to miss the key first meeting?

Executive Vice President Kristie Kahles, Financial Vice President Jeff Kocis, Board of Governors Representative Matt Giordano, Chief of Staff Michelle Gaddini and all the absentee senate members: their campaign-time promises of serving the students disappeared after Wednesday night. They should be ashamed.

Other senate members showed dedication. One, Jack Kaufman, drove two hours from a funeral to make the senate meeting. They should be commended.

Maybe those outside the greek system don't understand the bond - or the power - each fraternity or sorority carries with its members. This brotherhood and sisterhood is seemingly powerful enough to override commitment and promises made, not only to the other senate members, but to the campus they promised to represent.

It is a sad display we can only hope never happens again.

TODAY'S QUOTE

I've underestimated you. You've started using your incompetence as a weapon.

Lawrence Kasdan

Admit it, the debate re-enactments suck

You know the feeling: A friend calls and invites you to Charleston's televised re-enactment of the Lincoln-Douglas debates - a three-hour-long afternoon of political exchanges that helped shape this mighty union.

You can hardly hide your untethered excitement. You are entranced by the Lincoln mystique. Living in Illinois, you have been able to drink in the sights that influenced this great leader as a lad. You treasure receiving a penny as change, staring longingly into Lincoln's noble visage. A tear gleams in your eye whenever someone mentions the Ford Theatre, his hardships as a youth or the confidence he instilled in a divided nation.

Your goal before leaving college has been to set aside enough time to carefully study the entire Lincoln reference section of the campus library. Oh yes, you would love to attend Charleston's re-enactment of the Lincoln-Douglas debates.

But then you remember: The cable people are coming over, there's a student art show at Tarble, your parents are coming down for the weekend and you've been having some trouble with your kidneys.

So you regretfully decline the invitation.

But after hanging up the phone, you must be honest with yourself - you didn't turn down the debate because of cable, your parents or an art show. And your kidneys are just fine.

The real reason you backed out is because deep down, you hold a disturbing secret - a secret that hundreds of other Eastern students share, but refuse to publicly announce lest they be shunned by their peer group.

The re-enactment of the Lincoln-Douglas debate sucks. Admit it, you feel better knowing you are not alone.

The debate was nothing more than a historical side-bar to this community until C-SPAN promised to slap civic leaders' smiling mugs on television. Even the historical marker commemorating the site of the debate stood in sinking ground at a 45-degree angle until the local inter-

Thanks to debate buffs, we've made a perfectly pathetic Communityfest even more unbearable.

Thanks a lot, Lincoln-Douglas debate buffs. Thanks for civic leaders growing patchy "period" beards, which resemble Ed Asner's back hair more than any 19th century facial hair style.

Thanks for B.F. "Honest Abe" McClerren, who requires the use of a Mike Dukakis-esque hydraulic lift to boost himself above podium level. Thanks for a pre-Civil War stage housing more amps and microphones than a Who reunion concert. Thanks for C-SPAN 2.

Thanks for a Lincoln and a Douglas who require the use of a teleprompter. Thanks for giving an excuse to every pathetic moron who wishes they were born in another era to do so for an afternoon.

Thanks for giving those Lincoln Log Cabin kids an excuse to mingle with the general population. Thanks for B.F. "Rail Splitter" McClerren, who could more accurately portray Tolkien's Hobbit than Illinois' Lincoln.

Let's face it, the only interesting thing that will come out of the re-enactment will be seeing Mayor Dan Coughill watch someone portray an honest politician.

And Mayor Coughill, a shyster, probably won't even get the irony.

Government that governs least seeks to maximize liberty

Dear editor:

Thomas Jefferson once said, "The government that governs least governs best."

Today's advocates of this thought would say that government should have only a very short list of duties. The short list could have additions of carefully crafted legislation. The duties should address public health, safety and the many forms of theft.

Much of human behavior occurs in activities not directly addressed by laws. This is the empty space of human liberty.

Good government has also a very long list of items to avoid doing. This list tallies the many forms of the "free lunch."

The empty spaces of liberty are purposely maintained to encourage the people to organize and pursue the meaning of their lives. Too many laws and regulations will intrude upon this empty space of individual liberty.

Laws and regulations too often offer opportunities for bribery, intimidation, excesses of spending and other forms of government corruption.

Government that governs least seeks to maximize liberty. Therefore, we could call it "liberal" or "American classical liberal."

By some accident of language we call this conservative government. What we call liberal government does not champion liberty at all. We could simply call it the political left.

It loves to pass more laws, regulations and mandates. It does not see the individual as free and in charge of his and her life.

While proclaiming itself to be a great benefactor, the political left sees the individual as government property who needs to be controlled in every corner of his existence.

Will the real champions of liberty

Professor asks real President Jorns to please stand up

Dear editor:

According to the Aug. 29 University Professionals of Illinois Negotiations Bulletin, the Board of Governors university presidents (including Eastern President David Jorns) were the driving force behind the insulting offer of a .8 percent faculty salary increase - an offer far less than the 3.5 percent increase appropriated by the state legislature.

On the other hand, one goal listed in the November 1993 University Strategic Plan, highly touted by Jorns, is to "secure competitive salaries and benefits" for faculty and staff.

Will the real David Jorns please stand up?

You're looking at the most important relationship in her life.

Her compulsion for food. She suffers from a disease known as bulimia, or the "binge-purge" syndrome. She's obsessive in her thoughts of food and her body image.

At first, she's exhilarated in the power to consume massive quantities of food, yet when followed by throwing up, never gain an ounce. But exhilaration quickly turns to guilt, which worsens the need to seek comfort in food. So the bingeing, purging increases.

Because she can hide her illness so easily, a bulimic can continue this pattern indefinitely. Left untreated, she may suffer from kidney disease, internal bleeding, heart failure, as well as severe depression.

Bears confident of offensive overhaul

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears' offense didn't move the ball — couldn't move it — last season, but it did produce some noise at Soldier Field.

The boos were so loud that no ear muffs could block them out.

The 28th-ranked offense in the NFL was in need of an overhaul, and Coach Dave Wannstedt has done just that.

Changes have been sweeping, mainly on offense, as the Bears opened up their bank account and went shopping in the free agent market.

No Jim Harbaugh, the target of most fan abuse, or Neal Anderson or Richard Dent or Keith Van Horne or Steve McMichael. Craig "Ironhead" Heyward is gone, too.

The Bears' final roster for Sunday's season opener against Tampa Bay includes 14 players not on the roster at the end of 1993, when Chicago wrapped up a 7-9 season.

The new faces are many — quarterback Erik Kramer, tackle Andy Heck, running back Lewis Tillman, backup quarterback Steve Walsh, fullback Merrill Hoge and tight end Marv Cook.

"The (Shaun) Gayles and the (Kevin) Butlers and the (Trace) Armstrongs and the (Mark) Carriers, we got a nucleus of guys who've been here a few years. Obviously, we've added some new guys. Our guys have come together very nicely, and I feel good about the chemistry," Wannstedt said.

Kramer was given a three-year, $8.1 million contract, even though he's made only 17 NFL starts in four seasons, 15 with Detroit and two in 1987 when he was a strike replacement player with Atlanta. His record as a starter is 11-6.

Kramer isn't worried about the fan reaction.

"As long as none of them start putting on shoulder pads and helmets, I don't think we'll have to worry about it too much. Hopefully, they won't start booing if we rack up some points, too," he said with a grin.

Jordan declines basketball invite

CHICAGO (AP) — Michael Jordan announced Thursday that he will not participate in a charity basketball game Sept. 9 at the soon-to-be-demolished Chicago Stadium.

The game is the last event scheduled at the 65-year-old stadium, where Jordan led the Chicago Bulls to three successive National Basketball Association championships.

Jordan's announcement came in response to reports that he would play in the Scottie Pippen Ameritech All-Star Classic. Jordan said he would not play in it or any other charity basketball game, but wishes Pippen luck.

Jordan, who retired from the Bulls in October 1993, is now the nation's most famous minor league baseball player. He plays for the Birmingham Barons, a Class AA Southern League team of the Chicago White Sox.

Nine current or former NBA stars have confirmed their intent to play in the game. They were Pippen, Dominique Wilkins, Charles Oakley, B.J. Armstrong, Horace Grant, Ron Harper, Gary Payton, Mitch Richmond and John Starks.

Game organizers said they expected a number of other NBA players — including Toni Kukoc, Clarence Weatherspoon, Vernon Maxwell and Nick Anderson — to participate.

Winning streak record focus of Hurricane football players

MIAMI (AP) — The Orange Bowl sits in the heart of Little Havana, where the coffee, cigars and football team are hard to beat.

The Miami Hurricanes have won 57 consecutive games at the Orange Bowl. With a victory in Saturday's season opener against Georgia Southern, they'll surpass the NCAA record for the longest home winning streak, set by Alabama in 1962-82.

"When you sit and think about it, 58 straight has to be one of the most amazing accomplishments in football," said coach Dennis Erickson, who is 31-0 at the Orange Bowl.

Miami last lost at home in 1985, when Florida beat the Hurricanes 35-23 in the season opener. Jammi German, a starting wide receiver now, was starting the fifth grade then.

Since that loss, the Hurricanes have won three national championships — in 1987, '89 and '91. They clinched two of those titles with New Year's night victories in the Orange Bowl.

For the cover photo of this season's media guide, university officials chose not Erickson or a player, but the horseshoe-shaped bowl they call home.

"It's as much a part of this program as anything," defensive end Rusty Medearis said.

Medearis can appreciate the Orange Bowl better than most. He's a sixth-year senior, granted an extra season of eligibility because of a knee injury.

The tradition of the stadium is such, Medearis said, that simply running onto the field before an important game ranks with life's biggest thrills.

"There's no way I can put it into words," he said. "It's like one of my friends who told me he went skydiving — you can't tell someone about skydiving. You have to do it."

"You have to be in uniform and have that helmet strapped on and run through that tunnel. That's the only way you'll ever know. I wish everybody on this earth had a chance to do it. It's one of the greatest things that will ever happen to me."

During the streak, the team running through that tunnel is a combined 12-0 at home against Florida State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Florida.

Soccer team opens Monday at Bradley

By DAN FIELDS
Staff writer

Eastern's soccer team kicks off its season Monday when it travels to Peoria to take on the Braves of Bradley University.

Although this year's Panther squad features only five upperclassmen, head coach Cizo Mosnia is upbeat with the team's chances this season.

"We're seeing a lot of things that we weren't expecting — a lot of surprises," said Mosnia. "We have a few injuries, but we will plug up those holes."

Bradley head coach Jerry Crabtree has expressed the same sentiment, but he reported that his team is experiencing a few more injuries than the Panthers.

"Four of our seniors are out of the starting lineup, so right now we are very young," said Crabtree. "It's turned into a rebuilding year, unless the seniors take charge."

Mosnia noticed improvements in some of his players this past Thursday when the Panthers traveled to Chicago to participate against a German exhibition squad.

Eric Willson, a freshman from Rockford Boylan High School, has caught Mosnia's eye of late.

"He's very, very fast," Mosnia said. "He created a lot of trouble against the German team."

Veteran Panthers that Mosnia has seen quality play out of include sophomores Brad McTighe and Greg McDonald, junior Steve Van Dyke and senior Robert Tomic.

Although Monday's contest is a non-conference affair, Mosnia still sees it as an important game.

"I think it's (a) very important (game)," Mosnia said. "If we win against Bradley, it's another notch in the belt."

"We have goals set that every game is important to us."

Eastern's next contest will be Wednesday, when they host conference opponent Quincy.

The first home contest of the year will begin at 4 p.m. at Lakeside Field.

Injury forces Lendl out of U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) Ivan Lendl won't be adding to his U.S. Open hardware this year.

A back injury today forced the three-time champion to retire in his second-round match against Bernd Karbacher of Germany.

Karbacher was leading 6-4, 7-6 (7-5), 1-0 when Lendl pulled out, but the veteran right-hander had held a 5-0 lead in the second set before his game collapsed.

In women's second-round matches, defending champion and top-seeded Steffi Graf made quick work of Sandra Cacic after 10th-seeded Zina Garrison Jackson made quick work of a shoe.

Two points into her match against Argentine Paola Suarez, Garrison Jackson left the court when her shoe fell apart.

"I didn't have a pair," Jackson Garrison said. "One of the players let me use theirs. I was pretty lucky that there was someone in the locker room with the same size foot."

With the borrowed shoes, Garrison Jackson defeated Suarez 6-4, 6-3.

As fate would have it, Garrison Jackson's borrowed shoes came from Cacic.

"She said she had a new pair and an old worn-out pair," said Garrison Jackson, who took the old pair. "Once it finally molded to my foot, it was fine."

Indians pick up Winfield

CLEVELAND (AP) — When you get a shot at postseason play only once every 40 years or so, you don't want to waste it. So strike or no, the Cleveland Indians spent the last few weeks searching for ways to upgrade their lineup — and came up with Dave Winfield.

"I've experienced a lot of things in baseball, but I've never been traded during a strike," Winfield said in a telephone interview Thursday. "At least I know I'll be in a new uniform the next time I put one on."

Winfield, 42, was acquired by the Indians from the Minnesota Twins on Wednesday shortly before the midnight trading deadline.

The Twins will receive a player to be named later, although a cash settlement is possible if the season does not resume, Cleveland general manager John Hart said.

"About two weeks ago, John and I said we'd have to start thinking about our playoff roster," manager Mike Hargrove said.

Renewed baseball talks not imminent

NEW YORK (AP) — Renewed talks, much less a settlement of the baseball strike, didn't seem imminent Thursday.

As the strike completed its third week, federal mediators didn't see any purpose in more bargaining sessions.

"There's no news on my end," mediator John Martin said from his office in Boston. "We talk every day with them."

The only activity Thursday involved additional conflict. With active rosters allowed to expand to 40 on Sept. 1, the Pittsburgh Pirates recalled pitcher Randy Tomlin, who had been on the disabled list at Buffalo of the American Association.

The move put the pitcher on strike and halted his $975,000 salary, which comes to $5,328 per day.

Eugene Orza, the No. 2 official of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said the union will file both a default notice and a grievance against the Pirates.

After the union files a default notice, the team would have 10 days to correct the default or risk having arbitrator George Nicolau declare the player a free agent.

Nicolau also would decide if the team must pay Tomlin during the period he is on strike.

Orza said the union also will file a default notice and grievance over the Texas Rangers' recall of infielder Jeff Huson, which was announced Wednesday night.

Texas put two more players on strike Thursday, recalling outfielder David Hulse from Oklahoma City and purchasing the contract on outfielder Rob Ducey from the Triple A club. Orza said he would speak with the two before deciding how the union will react in their cases.

Later in the day, the Chicago Cubs announced the recall of pitcher Steve Trachsel from Iowa of the American Association.

The strike canceled nine more games Thursday, raising the total to 269, nearly 12 percent of the season. Major league baseball won't be played on Labor Day for the first time since it became a national holiday in 1894.

"Nothing has changed of which I am aware," union head Donald Fehr said.

Richard Ravitch, management's negotiator, said he had a conversation early in the day with John Calhoun Wells, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

"It was a very brief one in which he just told me about his meeting with Don and said he didn't come out of it feeling it would be useful to call a joint meeting at this point," Ravitch said.

While baseball owners canceled their quarterly meeting, which had been scheduled for next week in Detroit, Fehr said the players' association is contemplating an executive board meeting in New York on Sept. 12 and 13.

NHL resumes negotiations with players

NEW YORK (AP) — The NHL and its players resumed negotiations Thursday on a collective bargaining agreement as commissioner Gary Bettman's rollback of training camp benefits began.

"It's a blatant economic attack on the players," NHL Players Association director Bob Goodenow said of the sanctions following a 4-hour meeting at the NHL's offices. "Gary Bettman has made his decision. Anything he would do to make it more difficult is not in our mutual best objectives."

The sanctions, which include the elimination of meal allowances and forces players to pay their own way to camp and for their own life, medical and disability coverage, began

Thursday when the Winnipeg Jets opened camp.

Most of the other teams are due to report over the weekend.

"I'm surprised they would complain. It never came up," Bettman said. "My goal is not to punish players. My goal is to make a deal. We're working very hard to get an agreement as soon as possible. ... We don't want to end up in the same situation as baseball."

The NHL, which is seeking to tie salaries to revenue, informed teams Wednesday that training camps would open as scheduled, ending speculation that Bettman would order a lockout Monday if an agreement was not reached by then.

The players, without a collective bargaining agreement since last Sept. 15, hope to have salaries set by the open market and continue to seek liberalized free agency.

"We talked about a lot details and figures," Goodenow said. "We want to make certain about things the league is talking about. I don't want to be specific about the issues. ... The players are intent about going to camp. The rest is up to the league."

Thursday's meeting followed a five-hour session Tuesday in Toronto.

"Ongoing is better than not going," Bettman said. "We set up some tentative dates for next week. I'm not going to characterize specifics of negotiations other than that it is an ongoing process."

Iowa State coach envious of Northern Iowa program

AMES, Iowa (AP) — There are good jobs, better jobs and great jobs. Iowa State coach Jim Walden thinks Northern Iowa's Terry Allen definitely has the latter.

In Division I-AA football, Walden says there are few better.

"He's in what I think is one of the deluxe jobs in his class," said Walden, whose team meets Gateway Conference member Northern Iowa in Saturday's season opener at Iowa State's Cyclone Stadium.

"If he were in I-A, he'd be at a Florida State, a Florida, a Notre Dame. That's where he is in status of program."

From the UNI-Dome to its location, Northern Iowa, which Eastern will play host to for its Oct. 8 Homecoming, has everything a top-flight program needs, Walden said.

"They have a great facility. They live in a state where the predominance of athletes is more I-AA than any other class," he said. "So it gives you a great base for recruiting and he's done a marvelous job with it."

Walden knows from personal experience just how well Allen has done. Northern Iowa beat Iowa State 27-10 the last time the two teams met in 1992 and it was no fluke.

The Panthers dominated the game, holding Iowa State to 59 yards rushing and 222 total yards in beating the Cyclones for the first time since 1900.

While acknowledging Walden's compliment, Allen doesn't quite agree with the comparison.

"I don't think I've ever looked at it in that vein," he said. "I think we've done some good things here. But I don't know if I would put us in the position of those other teams in comparison."

"I feel good about what we've done. But we've never won a national championship. The teams he mentioned have."

Allen said it would be more accurate to call teams such as Marshall and Youngstown State the Notre Dames and Florida States of I-AA.

"They've won the national championship. We've never won," Allen said. "In our mind, we've still got a long way to go here."

That unfinished business of winning a national title is part of what continues to drive Allen. He's 47-15 in five seasons at Northern Iowa and his teams have won the last four Gateway Conference championships, but Allen still wants more.

Eastern drops opener, 31-15

Panthers start year off on wrong foot

By RANDY LISS
Associate sports editor

Maybe they could start over. Just this once.

This past preseason had spawned renewed hope for the Panthers' first winning season in five years, and while more wins than losses are certainly still possible, Murray State decided to make it a little harder on the Panthers, ruining Eastern's Centennial season opener by handing it a 31-15 defeat at O'Brien Field Thursday night.

The Racers ran to perfection the type of ball-control offense that Eastern wanted to run, dominating the line of scrimmage on both sides of the ball en route to the win.

"It's still a game of blocking and tackling," said Panther coach Bob Spoo, "and we didn't have much of that. They put it to us right away, and when we needed to make the plays, we didn't."

Eastern had no problems moving the chains up and down the field, but when scoring opportunities presented themselves, the Panthers simply couldn't take advantage.

Three times in the first three quarters the Panthers had bona-fide scoring opportunities in their clutches, only to have two interceptions and a sack wipe out all three.

Although he threw for 190 yards, Pete Mauch had a tough night in his debut as Eastern's starting quarterback. The junior threw three interceptions, one of which was in the end zone and another that was picked off at the Racers' 9 yard line.

"Chalk this one up to experience," Mauch said. "We played awesome between the (20-yard lines), (but) that doesn't mean a thing if you can't put it in the end zone when you're down there."

The Racers took an early 7-0 lead with a snappy 10-play, 68-yard opening drive that culminated with a David McCann 2-yard touchdown dive.

"It's still a game of blocking and tackling, and we didn't have much of that."

— Bob Spoo
Eastern coach

Six minutes later, Mauch directed the Panthers 59 yards in 12 plays, but free safety Elliott Dunn stepped in front of Mauch's sideline pass for a pickoff to squelch the drive.

Shortly after Chris Dill nailed a 37-yard field goal for the Racers, Murray State steamrolled 46 yards in only four plays to set up McCann's second touchdown of the game, giving the Racers a 17-0 lead.

Eastern went in at the half with some momentum when Mauch danced around the pocket and found wideout Jason Calabrese in the end zone with 0.7 seconds left to cut the deficit to 17-7.

But Murray State snatched the tempo right back in the second half, going 80 yards in 13 plays, leading to a Tony Turner 2-yard touchdown run to put the Racers up 24-7.

Eastern had a chance to answer, driving down to the Racers 13-yard line with the help of a Mauch-to-Calabrese 50-yard bomb, but the junior quarterback was picked off in the end zone.

After Murray State extended its lead to 31-7, Spoo inserted backup Ron Reichert to relieve the Mauch. Reichert answered, leading Eastern to a 71-yard scoring drive with a 14-yard touchdown pass to Calabrese to pull the Panthers to within 31-15.

Eastern then won the ensuing onside kick, to make it interesting, but Reichert was picked off attempting a fade pass to Greg Jensik in the end

Missed by a hair

Racer backs run over defense

By PAUL DEMPSEY

The one big question mark Murray State had going into last night's game was quarterback Benji Bona who had very little game experience.

So naturally, the Racers looked to the ground game.

The backfield of Wayne McGowan, David McCann and Tony Turner rushed for a combined 211 yards and three touchdowns as Murray State downed Eastern 31-15 in last night's season opener at O'Brien Field.

Murray State seemed to move the ball at will against the Panther defense. The Racers were outgained in total yardage 432 to 392 but they managed to put up a touchdown in every quarter.

Head coach Bob Spoo said the Racer offense didn't surprise him except for its speed.

"They got off blocks and ran very well," Spoo said. "Their front was nothing confusing. It was a matter of blocking."

Linebacker Tim Carver echoed the thoughts of Spoo about the quickness of the Murray State backfield.

"They came out with a lot of the things that we had practiced against," Carver said. "We just weren't ready for the speed that they came out with, to be quite honest. We weren't ready for that kind of tempo."

Murray State seemed to get the big play when it needed it, converting nine of 14 third-down conversions.

"Defensively we didn't step up and hit as well as we should have," Carver said. "But I tell you what though, we stuck through it to the end of the game."

Murray State used the big play in many of its drives to stymie the Panther defense.

A 54-yard run by McGowan set up a second quarter Racer field goal. And it was a 42-yard pass from Bona to Timmy Bland in the second quarter that helped move Murray State downfield and set up a one-yard touchdown plunge by McCann.

"We had a couple of big plays that hurt us," Carver said. "We had a difficult time reacting to the different schemes that they were doing up front. The linebackers weren't finding the ball as well as we should have."

Carver was able to remain optimistic and said the team needs to build on its performance.

"We take it as a learning game," Carver said. "We've just got to learn from it. We're not going to get down on each other. It's just a loss and we have to take it like that."

Volleyball team not afraid of season foes

By ANTHONY NASELLA
Staff writer

When the Lady Panthers' volleyball team opens its regular season this weekend at the University of New Mexico Tournament they will have the privilege of facing no less than two teams ranked in the nation's Top 25.

But head coach Betty Ralston is looking on the positive side in regards to the attitudes that her players should take in their matches against the University of Texas (No.

8) and New Mexico (No. 25).

"There won't be any pressure on us," Ralston said. "No one should have any preconceived notions. I don't think anybody on the team will have any fear because they don't know what they are up against."

"We just have to play our game," she added. "That's all we can do. We can't worry about what they can do. We just have to try to counteract them. We'll do what we can."

Ralston hasn't decided on a set lineup for the matches, nor does she plan to. She has a lot to work with from experienced seniors Kaaryn Sadler (468 kills, 474 digs) and Sherri Piwowarczyk (313 kills) to budding freshmen like Kara Harper and Lindsey Celba.

And the youngsters will be looking to help Eastern maintain the same competitive fire that has helped the volleyball squad to two consecutive appearances in the Mid-Continent Conference postseason tournament.

As for the different offensive attacks the Lady Panthers will be facing in the tournament, Ralston said that all her team can do is adjust.

"Adjusting and trying to match up the players will be one of the main things we need to focus on," Ralston said. "We just need everybody to play together. We're not expecting wins, but I certainly want to see a consistent effort."

Eastern gears up for year long centennial celebration

By ELIZABETH RAICHLE

When a member of Charleston's Normal School Committee sent a telegram in 1895, the face of the town changed forever.

As soon as George Jeffries' telegram was read, people rushed to the town square to celebrate a hard-won victory: Charleston was chosen by an act of Congress to become the site of the new reform school.

One-hundred years later, the city will be able to relive the spontaneous celebration and officially begin Eastern's centennial observance Wednesday as Mayor Dan Coughlin rereads the telegram Jeffries sent that Sept. 7.

"Reenactment day (as it is to be known) will reflect the spontaneous community celebration that occurred when the telegram from Springfield came," said Centennial Coordinator Bobbie Hilke.

In addition to the reenactment, a community picnic featuring live entertainment will begin 5 p.m. at Campus Pond Pavilion, located south of Lantz Building.

"This is a marvelous time and should be a wonderful party for everybody — faculty, students, alumni and community members," said Lisa Barr, director of alumni services and community relations. "There is also a keen interest on the part of our alumni to find out about centennial events as well as take a part of them."

Higher Destiny, an award-winning gospel group from east-central Illinois, will perform at the pavilion as well as country band The Sawyer Brothers and the Coles County Barbershop Singers. The Barbershop Quartet performed at Dvorak Concert Hall last spring and at an annual Christmas benefit concert.

Following the performances, a fireworks display, sponsored by Student Senate, will light up Eastern's sky, commemorating the birth of the university.

But the centennial celebration will not fizzle out after the fireworks end Wednesday night.

Centennial activities will continue throughout the 1994-95 year with a Centennial Homecoming Dance spotlighting the Oct. 7, 8 and 9 Homecoming weekend.

On Oct. 7, Student Government will transform the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union to an authentic USO Canteen from the World War II era.

"With this being the 50th anniversary of World War II and being Homecoming, we (Student Government) thought we could incorporate it into Centennial, since it is such a significant period in history," said Matt Giordano, Student Government chief of staff.

Giordano added that numerous alumni fought in World War II and that the dance would add to the Homecoming theme for them.

"The dance was created from a combination of ideas ... I think that it shows a significant part of Eastern's history."

The Centennial Homecoming Dance will begin at 8 p.m. and admission is free to all alumni, faculty, students and Charleston residents.

The year-long celebration of Eastern's history will draw to a close during the spring commencement May 6. Although the first class graduated in 1900, students going through commencement in May will have a special "Centennial Class" recognition.

"This May will be known as the Centennial Class, and it winds down the Centennial year," said Char Anderson, assistant director of alumni services and community relations.

Alumni reminisce on their years at Eastern

By NATALIE GOTT

In 1939, rules were strict and rarely broken at Eastern.

Stella Foreman, a retired teacher who raised her family in Charleston after graduating from Eastern in 1939, said Natalie McKay, then dean of women, expected the best from everyone. Girls were to be on their best behavior at all times. If they broke any rules, they were punished.

"The strangest thing happened when I was there," Foreman said. "A (Eastern) girl got pregnant; but she didn't live in Pem Hall, we didn't even know her. But, until her parents could come and get her, they brought her into Pem Hall and she wasn't even allowed to eat with us or anything. Mrs. McKay was not about to let her eat with her girls."

To make sure similar instances didn't occur, females were allowed to go out only a few nights a week. They abided by a 10 p.m. curfew on Wednesdays and an 11 p.m. curfew on Fridays and Saturdays unless a school-sponsored event was scheduled. On those nights, they could stay out a half an hour after the event was over.

On the nights they could go out, girls had to sign in and out, as well as write where she was going and who she was going with. Failure to do this resulted in expulsion from the university.

Strict study hours from 7 to 10 p.m. were enforced during the week.

At 10 p.m. the girls were allowed to socialize for 30 minutes before lights out.

"When I say socialize, I mean no one really got noisy," Foreman said. "There was always a few cranky ones on the floor."

Although the rules were strict, Foreman said some her fondest memories were created during the four years she spent at Eastern. Her social calendar, she said, was always filled.

Stella Foreman, a 1939 Eastern graduate, recalls her happy days spent on campus.

For only 50 cents, she and her future husband could see a movie at the Will Rogers Theater in the square and go out for a cola afterward.

She said participating and watching sporting events was also a favorite student pastime.

While the male students played football, basketball and baseball, females, under the direction of Miss McAfee, head of woman's physical education department, played tennis and field hockey.

"It didn't make any difference if it was 0 (degrees), we'd chase up and down those fields in those little blue rompers. Miss McAfee was very nice, but - oh dear - that hockey!"

Dancing was also a major sect of the social scene of the mid-30s. Pemberton Hall hosted many dances. Area bars also had large dance floors.

"We used to go out, which we weren't supposed to do, to bars occasionally," Foreman said. "But, really, we didn't go there for the purpose of drinking, we went there to dance."

"I had a good time at school ... I had a great time at school."

The 60s

"Coke" hours were popular and the University Union was the major student hangout, a 1966 graduate said.

While equal rights rallies and Vietnam protests raged on other campuses, Eastern was relatively quiet.

And Eastern students of the mid-60s enjoyed it.

Weekend activities resembled scenes from the 50s. Students flocked to sock-hops, athletic events and other school-sponsored activities, said Barbara Haberer, now a Charleston Junior High guidance counselor. If they left campus, they didn't venture too far away.

"A lot of our student life was the 'coke' hours (students would get together and drink coke), getting together at the (sorority and fraternity) for social hours," Haberer said. "We spent a lot of time playing bridge, too."

Parties where alcohol was served were reserved for weekends, Haberer said. Only those of age went to bars, she added.

"You knew you had to be of age to get in or you didn't go," Haberer said.

Females abided by a 10:30 p.m. curfew and 11:30 p.m. on weekends - if Dean Lawson approved the request for a late pass.

Between classes, students would socialize in the University Union, at Walts, which is now Marty's, or Little Campus across from Pemberton Hall.

"There was a real closeness between the students," Haberer said. "Not only with the people you lived with, but because you were always walking to the Union together."

Eastern Illinois University REFLECTIONS

By CHAD GALLAGHER

Throughout the past 100 years, Eastern has seen vast transformations varying from its name to the number of students and faculty.

Eastern's name has changed three times since it was founded in 1895 as Eastern Illinois State Normal School.

In 1921, when the school began to offer a four-year degree, the school name changed to Eastern Illinois State Teachers College only to have it changed again in 1947 to Eastern Illinois State College. Finally, in 1957, the school switched to Eastern Illinois University.

Under the leadership of Livingston C. Lord, Eastern's first president, the school opened its doors to 126 students in 1899 as a two-year teaching program with a staff of 18 faculty members. All classes were held in Old Main.

Today, more than 10,500 students are enrolled in classes, and more than 660 faculty members are employed. Eastern's expanded curriculum offers 46 undergraduate and 27 graduate degree programs.

Old Main was completed in 1899, with white rock forming a circular driveway in front of Lincoln Avenue, which originally was a dirt road.

Since the first day of classes in 1899, the campus has grown from a single building located on 40 acres just south of Charleston, to 70 establishments covering 320 acres of landscaped land.

In 1900, Marion Nelson Beeman, Guy Jink Koons, Bertha Volentine Ehlers and Lloyd Goble, were the first Eastern graduates, all of whom received degrees in teaching.

Last spring 1,316 students graduated.

In 1900, tuition for a school year was $7. An extra dollar paid for books. Tuition for the 1994-1995 school year has risen closely in line with inflation to $1,902 for undergraduates and $2,004 for graduate students.

Recreation and dating has also come a long way on campus since the early 1900's.

In 1925, students maintained a 7 p.m. curfew during the week and anyone coming or going had to sign in or out. When students dated, they would walk around the lake or went to the College Inn, where you could get a cola for 5 cents.

And now, almost an entire century later, Eastern continues to roll with the changes into the next hundred years.

■ Livingston C. Lord, Eastern's first president

■ In 1900, three men and one woman were the first graduates of Eastern Illinois State Normal School.

■ Model school students began their school day by attending morning chapel, conducted by President Lord.

■ Three weeks after the school opened its doors in 1899, the students organized an Athletic Association. The first sport was football. From two games and two losses the first year, their record quickly improved with an undefeated 1901 team. In 1918, former football captain and class president Martin (Otto) Schaher was killed in WWI. The athletic field was named in his honor.

Eastern Illinois University History

1895: Eastern Illinois State Normal School is created by an act of the General Assembly.

1899: The school opens. Lord presides as president.

1915: Eastern holds first Homecoming.

1921: the school's name is changed to Eastern Illinois State Teachers College.

1933: President Lord dies. President Robert Guy Buzzard (to 1956) succeeds Acting President Edson Taylor.

■ Lake Ahmoweenah was dug out for the clay soil that was used for the commercial sale of bricks. Today, all that remains of the lake is a small sunken garden immediately south of the McAfee Gymnasium.

■ The ground floor in the southwest corner of Old Main was the domain of librarian Mary Josephine Booth. Miss Booth, as she was known, demanded no whispering, no smoking, neckties for gentlemen and no slacks or short skirts (above the calf) for ladies.

Class capsule commemorates anniversary

By ANDREA DYDO

The senior class Centennial Student Government has no intention of allowing the Centennial Celebration of Eastern slip by unnoticed.

What they have had in mind for the past four years is a time capsule and a granite, engraved plaque which will serve as a remembrance of the university's 100th birthday.

Through the sale of centennial sweatshirts in the University Bookstore, the committee plans to raise about $1,000 for the purchase of these two items. The class presently has a checking account balance of $357.

According to Bobbie Hilke, Alumni Service Community Representative, the class has only chosen one item to go in the capsule so far, which is the mold of a lapel pin representing the centennial. The pin was designed by EIU art instructor Al Grivetti.

"We would like some input from the general student population," Hilke said, regarding the decision of what remains to be placed within the small air-tight vault.

But Jackie Urquhart, president of the Centennial Student Government, plans to achieve this goal by giving all the recognized student organizations an opportunity to bring in something which they think represents Eastern. These items would be accompanied by a short explanation of the objects' meaning.

"Personally, I want them to represent EIU as a whole, as we are now in 1994-95," Urquhart said.

Hilke hopes the presentation and burial of the time capsule will be on May 5, the night of the Centennial Ball; however, this has not yet been decided.

The committee presently is checking different locations for the capsule's burial. Their first choice is under the sidewalk in front of the Old Main building, but approval is still needed.

1947: Eastern's name changed to Eastern Illinois State College

1956: Quincey Doudna becomes Eastern's third president.

1976: Daniel Marvin is named Eastern's fifth president (to 1983).

1983: Stanley Rives assumes presidency.

1992: David Jorns named seventh EIU president.

1994: Eastern kicks off Centennial Celebration.

TEACHER CERTIFICATION EXAMS

All applicants for Illinois teaching certificates (or administrative or school service personnel certificates) must pass the Illinois Certification Tests before being issued a certificate. These consist of a Basic Test and a subject-matter examination. Since these tests are given only four times each year, interested individuals should be aware of the dates and deadlines listed below. Anyone having questions concerning these exams, or needing registration forms, study guides, or assistance, may contact the College of Education and Professional Studies in Buzzard Building 210.
